Update: BSI Knowledge

A new standards management platform for accessing and managing standards online

We have started moving customer accounts from BSOL to BSI Knowledge. You will be notified by BSI before your account is moved and informed of any actions you need to take.

BSOL will continue to be available for accessing your standards subscription until further notice.

If you are unable to access BSOL, your organization's account may have completed migration to BSI Knowledge. Click here to login: <https://knowledge.bsigroup.com/login>

HAVE YOU VISITED THE STANDARDS DEVELOPMENT PORTAL?

You can search for standards by entering a standard's ID or subject into the search box on the right side of the page. If you want to conduct a more precise search, click on 'Advanced search' underneath the search box.

Using advanced search, you can filter your search results in many different ways, as you can see below.

Advanced Search

Search for standard numbers and keywords. Clear Search

BSI has been gradually implementing Digital Rights Management across its documents. In order to continue to download and print documents from your British Standards Online subscription, you are required to download the FileOpen plug-in. Your access to view standards remains unaffected.

If you encounter any issues opening the standard, please try opening from your Downloads folder, by right-clicking (or using Command key on iOS) and selecting "Open with Adobe Acrobat Reader".

To read it in your browser, click the 'Quick view' link on the left side of the page.

To download the standard, click 'Download PDF'. To read downloaded standards, you need to have installed a plugin called FileOpen. There is a link to install FileOpen in the red box at the top of the page. Alternatively, you can download FileOpen here.

FileOpen is supported by Adobe Acrobat and Adobe Reader. The PDFs cannot be opened in a browser, so make sure that you download the PDF onto your device and then open it in Adobe.

Browsing

Standards are organised into collections called modules. For example, our subscription includes 'GBM24 Information Technology - Software & Networking' and 'GBM25 Information Technology - Hardware & Office Machines'.

To browse the standards covered by our subscription, go to the British Standards homepage and click on one of the modules on the left side of the page.
