

British Standards Online - Quick Start Guide

British Standards Online (BSOL) is a database that provides access to all British Standards. Full text access is to two modules only: IT Software and Networking (GBM 24); IT -Hardware and Office Machines (GBM 25). The database is updated daily.

British Standards Online Homepage

The screenshot shows the BSOL homepage with the following elements:

- Header: "British Standards Online | BSOL™" logo on the left. On the right, it says "BSOL is a service provided by BSI Standards" and "Welcome Univestiy Athens | Logout".
- Navigation: A dark blue bar with links: "Home" (highlighted), "My BSOL", "Browse", "Help" (circled in red), and "News".
- Search Bar: A search input field containing "E.g. BS 1234 or steam valves" and a magnifying glass icon. To the right is a link for "Advanced Search".
- My Subscription: A grey box with a dropdown arrow and the text "My Subscription", "Uni of London - M2", and "2 modules". A red callout box points to this section.
- Search Tips: A light blue box with an information icon and the text "Search by standard numbers or by keywords". Below it is a search input field with the same example text and a "Search" button. A red callout box points to this search area.
- Search Tips List: A list of links: "How do I perform a search on BSOL?", "What is Advanced Search?", and "Are Boolean operators and wildcard symbols supported?".
- More Search Options: A link below the search tips box.

Callout Box 1 (top): Click here for help with using the database (points to the "Help" link).

Callout Box 2 (bottom left): We subscribe to 2 modules so you will only be able to view the full text of standards within those modules. Click on 'Uni of London' to be taken to a page where you can search within our subscription (points to the "Uni of London - M2" text).

Callout Box 3 (bottom right): You can search all the Standards by Standard number or keywords, but please note that you will only be able to view the full texts of standards within our subscription (points to the search input field).
